Thank you for taking this survey!

The purpose of this survey is to understand the scope and consequences of harassment/intimidation of scientists. We greatly appreciate your contribution and time.

As thanks to everyone who participates in this survey, Science will donate $500 to charity, divided proportionally among three charities according to participants' selections. The options are:

- 1. Malaria Consortium – this charity distributes antimalarial drugs to children aged 3-6 years old, and protects a child from malaria for each $7. Malaria Consortium is the top-rated charity assessed by GiveWell, which examines the evidence of how effective charities are and how much good a program accomplishes for each dollar spent. Read more here: <https://www.givewell.org/charities/malaria-consortium>.

2. COVID-19 Solidarity Response Fund – this fund supports the World Health Organization and its partner organizations (including the African CDC, United Nations Refugee Agency, and World Food Programme) in providing essential resources to low-income countries, helping displaced people, and more. Read more here: <https://covid19responsefund.org/en/impact/>.
3. GiveDirectly – this charity gives money directly to low-income households in developing countries, which evidence suggests helps people by allowing them to spend donations on the goods and services they most need. Like Malaria Consortium, this charity is highly rated by GiveWell. Read more here: <https://www.givewell.org/charities/give-directly>.

Please choose which charity should receive your share of the donation:

- ☐ Malaria Consortium
- ☐ COVID-19 Solidarity Response Fund
- ☐ GiveDirectly
